Ohio's system for evaluating teachers (Ohio's Teacher Evaluation System) provides educators with a detailed view of their performance, with a focus on specific strengths and opportunities for improvement. The system is research-based and designed to be transparent, fair, and adaptable to the specific contexts of Ohio's school districts. Furthermore, it builds on what educators know about the importance of ongoing assessment and feedback as a powerful vehicle to support improved practice. Teacher performance and student academic growth are the two key components of Ohio's evaluation system.

Limitations of the Ohio Teacher Evaluation System (OTES) Data:

1. The information in the report is for those individuals receiving their licenses with effective years of 2011, 2012, 2013, and 2014.
2. The teacher evaluation data in this report are provided by the Ohio Department of Education.
3. Due to Ohio law, results must be masked for institutions with fewer than 10 completers with OTES data.

Value-Added Data for Students Taught by Teachers Prepared by Ohio Educator Preparation Providers at Ashland University

Reporting Period from Sept 1, 2014 to Aug 31, 2015

Description of Data:

February 2016 Note: Value-Added results for the 2015 Report are not yet available. Revised Educator Preparation Performance Reports will be published when these data become available.

Ohio's value-added data system provides information on student academic gains. As a vital component of Ohio's accountability system, districts and educators have access to an extensive array of diagnostic data through the Education Value-Added Assessment System (EVAAS). Schools can demonstrate through value-added data that many of their students are achieving significant progress. Student growth measures also provide students and parents with evidence of the impact of their efforts. Educators and schools further use value-added data to inform instructional practices.

Limitations of the Value-Added Data:

1. The information in the report is for those individuals receiving their licenses with effective years of, 2011, 2012, 2013, and 2014.
2. The value-added data in this report are those reported by Ohio's Education Value-Added Assessment System (EVAAS) based on reading and mathematics achievement tests in grades 4-8.
3. For Educator Preparation Providers with fewer than 10 linked teachers or principals with value-added data, only the number (N) is reported.

Excellence and Innovation Initiatives

Reporting Period from Sept 1, 2014 to Aug 31, 2015
(Data Source: Ashland University)

Description of Data:

This section reflects self-reported information from Ohio Educator Preparation Providers on a maximum of three initiatives geared to increase excellence and support innovation in the preparation of Ohio educators.

Teacher Preparation Programs

Initiative:	B.S.Ed. Intervention Specialist with Dual Licensu
Purpose:	This K-12 IS program enables candidates to work towards mild/moderate and moderate/intensive licensure with a single degree.
Goal:	This redesigned program is to provide all Intervention Specialist candidates with curricula aligned with CEC Standards for Mild/Moderate and Moderate/Intensive needs.
Number of Participants:	22
Strategy:	A.U.'s two intervention specialist (mild/moderate and moderate/intensive) degree programs were combined so that candidates may complete course work for both licenses within a 4-year program. Through conversations with local schools, faculty learned that there was a need for teachers to be licensed in both areas. They then discussed needed program changes with practitioners, graduate students, and program completers. Using CEC standards and Ohio OSTP guidelines, courses are designed around skill areas such as assessment, communication, collaboration, and intervention rather than age bands or level of educational need. Methods courses are connected to field or clinical experiences taken the same term. While the full range of ages and levels of educational need are covered methods, field/clinical placements are made at the age and level of educational need most often in need of the skill(s) being taught. Fields focus on diverse experiences in elementary, middle and high schools in a variety of settings. As candidates approach their internships, they select one that parallels their intended licensure area: (1) Mild/Moderate, (2) Moderate/Intensive, or (3) Mild/Moderate/Intensive.
Demonstration of Impact:	Twenty-two candidates have successfully completed the program and all chose internships that lead to dual licensure. Compared to the previous program enrollments, many more candidates are choosing to teach children who have mild-to-moderate or moderate-to-intensive needs. They will be better serving the varied needs of Ohio's children.
External Recognition:	Not applicable
Programs:	Intervention Specialist: Mild Moderate and Modertate Intensive
Initiative:	Online and Instructional Technology Minor
Purpose:	Undergraduate education candidates learn methods of instructional design for online delivery.
Goal:	Obtain a foundation and practice in the design, development, and implementation of technology for online teaching and learning.
Number of Participants:	24
Strategy:	While most colleges and universities focus on adult and distant learning at a graduate level, Ashland has made the choice to prepare its education candidates early on, so they are ready for a changing educational market. In this new 12-hour online minor, candidates develop a thorough understanding of online teaching and learning, as well as a foundation in the design, development, and implementation of technology-based applications. Ashland University's first group matriculated into EDCI 332 - Instructional design this fall are at the verge of completing the course. The instructor, Dr. J.B. Ellis, has been thoroughly impressed with the group's performance and looks forward to the next course in sequence, EDCI 333 - Learning Management Systems in which students will use the unit plans they have designed to pilot the unit online for a week using CourseSites, MoodleCloud, and Google Classroom as distinct learning management systems.
Demonstration of Impact:	Successful course outcome completion, enrollment demand, technology implementation into field work.
External Recognition:	Not applicable.

Programs: Early Childhood Education, Intervention Specialist, Middle Grades, Adolescent-Young Adult, and/or Multi-Age undergraduate degree programs.

Initiative: Fulbright-Hays Short Term Seminar Project

Purpose: Students and in-service teachers will perform disability studies in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil for the month of July 2016.

Goal: To integrate international studies into curricula and promote development of culturally responsive educators, increase language acquisition of a less commonly taught language and enhance cultural competency, and perform area studies that increase awareness of accessibility and inclusion and change p

Strategy: Under the direction of Dr. J.B. Ellis and Dr. C. Abreu-Ellis, recruitment is finished for Ashland University's Fulbright-Hays seminar group to perform disability studies in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil for the month of July 2016. Students will be hosted by AU's long-term partner school, the Our Lady of Mercy School, and will partner with their teachers and other high-profile Brazilian specialists in accessibility and inclusion. Eight current teachers from local and partner schools (Ashland City, Ontario Local, Wooster City, Shaker Heights, Plymouth Schools, Parma Schools, Shelby School District, and Monks Corner, South Carolina) and eight AU undergraduate candidates (five from the early childhood education program and three from the intervention specialist program) have been selected. These individuals will take two, eight-week semesters of Portuguese language instruction in the spring and will form groups of four (two teachers + two undergraduate candidates) to research themes based on accessibility and transportation, tourism, architectural barriers, and sports. This U.S. Federal Government awarded program fully funds its participants for this study abroad experience.

Demonstration of Impact: Participants will be evaluated on the objectives based on the follow assessments: pre-departure orientation modules, curriculum integration plan, outreach survey, survey of perceptions on global education, pre and post Portuguese language proficiency, and an accessibility implementation strategy.

External Recognition: Project funded for $67,575.08 from the U.S. Department of Education, International and Foreign Language Education.

Programs: Early Childhood Education and Intervention Specialist.
