Excellence and Innovation Initiatives

Reporting Period from Sept 1, 2014 to Aug 31, 2015
(Data Source: Baldwin Wallace University)

Description of Data:

This section reflects self-reported information from Ohio Educator Preparation Providers on a maximum of three initiatives geared to increase excellence and support innovation in the preparation of Ohio educators.

Teacher Preparation Programs

Initiative:	Co-Teaching Pilot Program for Clinical Practice
Purpose:	To create a more mutually beneficial partnership with schools
Goal:	To improve both the preparation of pre-service teachers and K-12 students' academic success.
Number of Participants:	167
Strategy:	Baldwin Wallace University created grade-level teams of pre-service candidates and teachers in two schools during the fall 2014 field experience and spring 2015 Clinical Practice. These pairs used flexible grouping and co-teaching best practice strategies in a cycle of co-planning, co-teaching, and co-assessing students' learning in literacy and numeracy. Key features of the pilot included faculty, candidate, teacher and principal training; faculty recommendation of participating candidates; active candidate-to-teacher matching; and regular support sessions for teachers and candidates. The pilot consisted of 27 BW faculty and staff, teachers, and principals, and 140 early childhood candidates.
Demonstration of Impact:	6 of 7 pre-service candidates scored higher on the OBR Pre-Service Teacher Survey in use of data, assessment, collaboration, and differentiation compared to general Baldwin Wallace University candidates and Ohio scores. Teachers reported increased confidence, professional identity and willingness to collaborate. K-12 students' scores are currently under review.
External Recognition:	Martha Holden Jennings Foundation featured the pilot in the annual report. The Washington Post featured the pilot study in a 2015 article about unintended consequences of high stakes testing in schools.
Programs:	Early Childhood Education

Principal Preparation Programs

Initiative:	School Leadership Internship Binder Night
Purpose:	Pair BW interns with BW principal graduates for ongoing collaboration throughout the school year
Goal:	All interns will better understand the purpose and completion of the School Leadership Internship Binder. Interns will also benefit from their one-on-one partnership with a BW graduate principal in better understanding the role of a school principal.
Number of Participants:	26
Strategy:	As part of the 14 month internship, interns must complete a School Leadership Internship Binder. This binder is a compilation of numerous rubric-based projects, administrative experiences, and a major school-focused project. To better acquaint the interns with the final "product," Binder Night is scheduled to connect interns with BW principal graduates.
Demonstration of Impact:	Surveys are taken by the BW interns and the participating BW school principal graduates as to the impact/effectiveness of this activity.
External Recognition:	OCPEA commendation of best practice for the incorporation of BW School Leadership graduates in the internship program

Initiative:	Special School Seminar Visitation Nights
Purpose:	Engage current interns in specially planned K-12 school visitations
Goal:	Network and experience the unique environment/culture of K-12 schools in urban, suburban, and rural settings
Number of Participants:	26
Strategy:	These seminars take place in the specific K-12 schools where the interns are employed. The event focuses on the unique nature of each K-12 school. In addition to building tours being conducted by the facilitating intern, discussion is focused on the challenges and exemplary programs that exist in the school. The school principal is introduced and provides additional background information specific to the school's characteristics.
Demonstration of Impact:	Surveys administered to both Baldwin Wallace University interns and the specific school principals for feedback on the effectiveness of the seminar.
External Recognition:	OCPEA acknowledgement of best practice/innovative
