

Train the Trainers Workshops – September and October 2015

Ohio Department of Higher Education

By the end of our day together, we hope that you will be able to do, know, or care about the following...

Goals and Objectives

- Trainers will understand House Bill 488, more specifically how to appropriately translate military training, coursework, and experiential learning to college credit within the context of their own institutions.
 - Trainers will be able to accurately and effectively explain the content and procedural aspects of H.B. 488 to individuals not familiar with the law.
 - Trainers will be able to ask appropriate questions of veterans or other individuals in the process of credit translation.
 - Trainers will be able to accurately and consistently translate military training and experiential learning recommendations to college credit.
 - Trainers will be able to access appropriate resources as necessary.

- Trainers will understand how to construct a workshop that enables participants to appropriately translate military training, coursework, and experience to college credit within their own institutions.
 - Trainers will be able to apply a basic workshop structure to a specific workshop that will support participants' acquisition of the workshop goals.
 - Trainers will be able to create appropriate activities that will support participants' learning.
 - Trainers will be able to evaluate whether participants are well prepared to appropriately translate military training and experiential learning recommendations to college credit.

- Trainers will understand the basic skills and concepts inherent in facilitating workshops.
 - Trainers will be able to apply their facilitation skills to the workshop they have designed.
 - Trainers will be able to facilitate workshops and support participant learning.
 - Trainers will recognize where they may need assistance in facilitating workshops and will be able to seek out appropriate resources for assistance.

Goals and Objectives for your participants after completing all training workshops

- Participants will understand House Bill 488, more specifically how to appropriately translate military training, coursework, and experiential learning to college credit within the context of their own institution
 - Participants will be able to accurately and effectively explain the content and procedural aspects of HB 488 to individuals not familiar with the law.
 - Participants will be able to ask appropriate questions of veterans or other individuals interacting in the process of credit translation
 - Participants will be able to accurately and consistently translate military training and experiential learning to college credit
 - Participants will be able to access appropriate resources as necessary

Deliverables for our next workshop on October 21st

For our next workshop your team will prepare a workshop on the assigned topic area. Each regional team will have 45 minutes in which to share their workshop plan with the rest of the trainers.

Please plan to divide up your presentation into these sections:

- Introduction (10-15 minutes)
 - Present the general outline of your workshop and affiliated resources
- Presentation (10-15 minutes)
 - Select an activity from your workshop and facilitate a 10-15 min. portion of it for the rest of the trainers. Choose something active that will get your participants involved.
- Discussion and Questions (15 minutes)
 - This will be an open discussion and time for questions from the other regional teams.

Regional Teams & Potential Meeting

Northwest = Bowling Green State University, University of Toledo, Owens Community College, Northwest State Community College, Rhodes State Community College, Terra State Community College, Marion Tech Community College (Potential Meeting October 2nd 9-noon Room 208, Bowen-Thompson Student Union @ BGSU)

Northeast = Youngstown State University, University of Akron, Kent State University, Cleveland State University, Stark State College, Cuyahoga Community College, Lakeland Community College, Lorain County Community College, North Central State College (Potential Meeting October 5th 9-3m Room 208, Corporate College East – Cuyahoga Community College)

Southwest = Wright State University, Sinclair Community College, Cincinnati State Tech & Community College, University of Cincinnati, Clark State Community College, Edison Community College, Miami University (Potential Meeting October 6th 10-1 in the Veterans & Military Center, 131 Allyn Hall, Wright State University)

Southeast = Ohio University, The Ohio State University, Southern State Community College, Hocking College, Central Ohio Tech College, Columbus State Community College. (Potential Meeting October 5th 9-12, Room 230, Baker University Center – Ohio University)